

The diagram consists of 12 horizontal rows. Each row contains a series of 12 groups of three parallel diagonal lines. The lines in each group are closely spaced, while there is a noticeable gap between the groups. The groups are arranged in a staggered pattern across the rows, creating a brickwork-like appearance. The lines are black on a white background.