

The diagram illustrates a repeating pattern of diagonal lines. It consists of 12 rows, each containing a series of parallel diagonal lines sloping downwards from left to right. These diagonal lines are separated by vertical lines. The entire pattern is enclosed within a rectangular frame, with the top and bottom edges represented by double lines. The pattern is symmetrical and repeats across the entire width and height of the diagram.